

NSW Industry Training Advisory Bodies

NSW Industry Training Advisory Bodies (ITABs) are the primary source of advice on the training and skill needs of industry in New South Wales

What are ITABs?

ITABs are autonomous, industry based bodies that represent their NSW industry sectors on training and related matters to support the vocational education and training system.

They work in tandem with Industry Skills Councils to assist industry with workforce development needs.

What do ITABs do?

In NSW, 11 ITABs are funded by the NSW Government. They articulate Government policy and initiatives to industry and provide independent feedback to Government on NSW industry training needs and workforce development priorities.

ITABs are contracted by the NSW Department of Industry to perform these core services:

- identify industry skill needs, priorities and skills development issues for funded training in New South Wales
- support the delivery of quality training in New South Wales

- promote training to industry and assist in the take up of funded training
- advise the Department about apprenticeship and traineeship arrangements
- advise on development, review and implementation of Training Packages
- support the delivery of vocational education and training to school students

The work of ITABs contributes to the NSW Government meeting its training priorities and commitments.

With their extensive knowledge, experience and broad networks they are also well positioned to provide a range of services to industry and enterprises, other government departments and agencies, training providers and those interested in training. Some services may be on a fee-for-service basis.
