Aboriginal Training Co-ordinators - information

The NSW Department of Industry is committed to improving the vocational outcomes and wellbeing of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people so that they excel and achieve in every aspect of their education and training.

Aboriginal Training Co-ordinators

Aboriginal Training Coordinators provide specialist advice and support to Aboriginal communities to improve access to training, employment and assistance in the workplace.

Aboriginal Training Coordinators are based in Training Services NSW regional offices across NSW, working closely with Aboriginal apprentices and trainees, employers, training organisations, government agencies and the wider community, to develop pathways for Aboriginal people into employment or further training.

Aboriginal Training Coordinators undertake a variety of tasks and activities which include:

- Providing advice and support to apprentices, trainees and employers concerning their obligations under the Apprenticeship and Traineeship Act 2001.
- Promote and support Apprenticeship and Traineeship pathways, including school based apprenticeship and traineeship arrangements for Aboriginal people.
- Liaising with key State Training Services stakeholders and assisting with the development of training and employment strategies for Aboriginal people.
- Providing advice to internal and external clients on developments and regional initiatives relating to Aboriginal training, employment and economic development.
- Assisting with the promotion and coordination of the Way Ahead for Aboriginal People Mentoring, New Careers for Aboriginal People (NCAP), Aboriginal Enterprise Development Officer (AEDO) and the Elsa Dixon Aboriginal Employment (EDAEP) programs.
- Providing advice and supporting local networks for Aboriginal communities to access a range of programs that support Aboriginal education, employment and training.
- Coordinate and participate in local community engagement activities to promote Aboriginal workforce development strategies.

Your local Aboriginal Training Coordinator is an important resource that you can call upon to provide information.
